official records produced by the armies of the united states and the confederacy and the executive branches of their respective governments concerning the military operations of the civil war and prisoners of war or prisoners of state also annual reports of military departments calls for troops correspondence between national and state governments correspondence between union and confederate officials the final volume includes a synopsis general index special index for various military divisions and background information on how these documents were collected and published accompanied by an atlas

this book is about how distinctions are drawn between civilians and combatants in modern warfare and how the legal principle of distinction depends on the technical means through which combatants make themselves visibly distinguishable from civilians the author demonstrates that technologies of visualisation have always been part of the operation of the principle of distinction arguing that the military uniform sustained the legal categories of civilian and combatant and actively set the boundaries of permissible and prohibited targeting and so legal and illegal killing drawing upon insights from the theory of legal materiality visual studies critical fashion studies and a dozen of military manuals he shows that far from being passive objects of regulation these technologies help to draw the boundaries of the legitimate target with its attention to the co-productive relationship between law technologies of visualisation and legitimisation of violence this book will be relevant to a large community of researchers in international law international relations critical military studies contemporary counterinsurgency operations and the sociology of law contains war correspondence during 1877 1878 of members of the uk s daily news newspaper regarding the russo turkish war this book examines the impact of world war one on the people of limerick it traces how recruitment which was weak at the commencement of the war increased locally after the leader of the irish parliamentary party john redmond issued his call for irish nationalists and others to enlist and as the war progressed how sinn féin separatists impinged on recruiting efforts it also shows that the british war office were unwitting contributors to the separatists cause by their ill conceived actions that only assisted them in their political cause and anti recruiting campaign the book also tracks how the separatists gained considerably in both military and political strength locally through the inept policies that changed public support for the war effort thereby paving the way for the sinn féin victory in the general election of december 1918 thus giving credence to the author and poet robert graves description that limerick had become a sinn féin ridden town further to this it demonstrates that despite the best efforts of local capitalists to procure war work contracted out by the british war office only very little was achieved the war office ensuring that the vast array of such work was to remain in britain some local capitalists did of course gain as a result of the war these were notably those such as merchants and farmers who were in a position to provide britain and her army with all the foodstuffs that she required those on low incomes namely the working class who also provided the majority of recruits for the armed forces were to suffer through the ever increasing price rises this book therefore reveals a complex scene where social and political alignments reflect much of what was happening nationally but also had uniquely local characteristics
